UNDELIVERED PACKAGE ALERT

Postal Service Warns Public Of Possible Scams

The United States Postal Service is warning people about fake e-mails using its name. The message claims to be an alert about an undelivered package, but it really carries a virus.

E-mail users are receiving messages which say the Postal Service has been unable to deliver a package. The package can be claimed by downloading an attached confirmation form to take to the post office. However, those who click on the file will download a virus which phishes for personal and banking information on their computer.

E-mail scams can be spotted by following these tips:

- Scammers make e-mails appear to come from a reputable source. Just because it looks like an “@usps.com” address does not mean it is safe.
- Consumers should be wary of unexpected e-mails containing links or attachments.
- Some pop-ups are designed to look as if they originated from the user’s computer. Pop-ups that look like antivirus software but warn of a problem which needs to be fixed with an extreme level of urgency may be scams.
- Scam e-mails are often riddled with typos and poor grammar and spelling.
- Scam e-mails indicating immediate action is needed try to get the reader to act before thinking by creating a sense of urgency.

When buying online, consumers should receive a tracking number which can be used to obtain official details of the shipment by logging on to the shipper’s Web site.

PROPERTY MANAGER THINKS INCIDENT AT APARTMENTS WAS ILLEGAL

Conservative Budget Presented To Council

By Carolyn Walker

Following the reading of a budget message from Mayor Jenny Sewell, the Dawson Springs City Council approved a first reading of the proposed budget for fiscal year 2014-2015 during Monday night’s meeting. A second reading and vote were scheduled for a special meeting at 5 p.m. tonight in council chambers.

The mayor’s message emphasized the need for a conservative approach to the budget because of “uncertain times and a changing economy.” The proposed budget is almost $500,000 less than the budget for the current fiscal year.

In a roll-call vote, the council unanimously accepted a resolution approving a Municipal Aid Co-op Program contract for paving streets in the city limits.

Cindy Young with the Hopkins County Joint Planning Commission presented the county’s 2035 comprehensive plan for approval. The plan incorporates priorities for Dawson Springs developed during a work session with city officials. The council voted unanimously to ratify the plan.

Kenny Thomas asked to add an item to the agenda, telling fellow council members he is concerned about the locked gate in front of the pavilion in the city park. Thomas feels this is an inconvenience to those using the pavilion who have to park elsewhere and walk to the facility.

City clerk Janet Dunbar explained that the lock is for insurance purposes. Groups who want to access the pavilion must contact the city, and the gate will be unlocked.

The mayor added that insurance regulations require people reserving any of the park facilities to sign an agreement with the city.

Thomas suggested a sign informing people of that policy.

Joe Cummins, property manager of the apartment building at 200 Munn Street, addressed the council about an incident he believes to be illegal. Cummins said Chief Bill Crider recently entered the building, including occupied apartments, with property inspector Steve Wallace without Cummins’

5 p.m. The cost of the meal is $5 per plate.

Bikes and scooters will be on display at 6 p.m. in the downtown area. Visitors can vote for their favorite vehicle, and a people’s choice trophy will be awarded. The mayor’s choice will also receive a trophy.

‘Big Step’ Announced Toward I-69

On Tuesday, Gov. Steve Beshear announced award of a contract for more of the improvements needed for bringing a portion of the Breathitt-Pennyrile Parkway up to interstate standards and eventual designation as Interstate 69.

“This is another big step toward our goal of an I-69 Corridor from the Ohio River to the Tennessee border,” Beshear said. “I-69 will be an enduring asset to Western Kentucky and, indeed, to the entire commonwealth.”

The new project will result in improvements to a 36.4-mile stretch of the parkway in Hopkins, Webster and Henderson counties. The project includes pavement rehabilitation, new lighting, reconstructing ramps, widening overpass bridges and fixing vertical clearance issues on some overpass structures. Addressing outdated bridge barrier walls, disjointed pipes along the routes and low or damaged guardrails also fall within the scope of the contract.

Hall Contracting of Kentucky Inc. was awarded the contract on a low bid of $11.93 million. The contract has a completion date of Aug. 1, 2015.

Once complete, I-69 in Kentucky will run north to south from the Ohio River at Hen-

Junior-Senior Council Approves Budget

By Carolyn Walker

The June meeting of the Dawson Springs Junior-Senior High SBDM Council was held last week.

Members approved the current budget. As of June 11, 81.4 percent of the 2013-2014 SBDM allocation had been spent. The council also approved rolling over the remaining $5,100 into the 2014-2015 budget.

SBDM training scheduled for June 17 was discussed. The training will take place at 5 p.m. at the Christian County Board of Education.

Principal and council chairman Kevin Stockman told members a data analysis on discipline for the past school year shows afterschool detentions have decreased, and office referrals are also down slightly.

A tentative date of July 9 was set for the next council meeting. However, since school is not in session, a meeting may not be necessary next month.

Tobacco Agreement Will Restore 2014 Agriculture, Early Childhood Budget Cuts

From Kentucky Press News Service

Gov. Steve Beshear and Attorney General Jack Conway Thursday announced a victory not only for Kentucky farmers, but also for critical health care and early childhood services funded by the 1998 tobacco Master Settlement Agreement.

As a result of the agreement between Kentucky and tobacco manufacturers prompted by an adverse ruling in the 2003 Master Settlement Agreement (MSA) arbitration proceeding, the state has settled 10 years of disputed claims and litigation, starting with 2003 payments and running through 2012.

The settlement relieves the state from the financial and administrative burden of litigating disputes over events that occurred a decade ago, and provides a framework for evaluating the parties' obligations going forward. It also ensures that Kentucky will continue receiving its MSA payments. With this agreement, Kentucky joins 22 other states that have elected to settle Non-Participating Manufacturer MSA disputes, according to a statement from Beshear's office.

Under the agreement, Kentucky receives $110.4 million in disputed and related payments and will avoid a long and expensive legal battle. Combined with the $48.3 million in payments already received this fiscal year, the total MSA payments for fiscal year 2014 total is $158.7 million, which is $67.9 million more than budgeted for FY14.

However, estimated receipts for FY15 are $26.6 million less than budgeted, and FY16 are $15.9 million more. Overall, Kentucky stands to receive $57.2 million more in MSA payments over the next three years than budgeted.

"Our first priority with this money is to fully restore $42.5 million in 2014 budget cuts in areas like lung cancer research, county agriculture funds, and early childhood oral and mental health assistance, while maintaining this level of funding in 2015," Beshear said in the statement. "This agreement will ensure funding availability for future investments in these programs that continue to have a positive impact on the commonwealth."

Through the Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund or KADF, Kentucky has invested more than $400 million in MSA funds for an array of county, regional and state projects designed to increase net farm income and create sustainable new farm-based business enterprises. Since the inception of KADF in January 2001, Kentucky has funded more than 4,800 projects.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE
TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE
An Old Prophet and the Man of God
I Kings 13
An old prophet living in Bethel heard from his sons that the man of God from Judah had refused to eat with King Jeroboam because the Lord had told him not to eat or drink in that place. He went and approached the man of God as he traveled and invited him to come and eat with him since he was a prophet also and that an angel had sent him to invite the man of God to eat with him. (The old prophet was lying). The man of God returned with him and ate and drank in his house. While they were sitting at the table the old prophet told the man of God that he had defied the word of the Lord and had not kept God's commands since he came back and ate bread and drank water in the place where God had told him not to eat or drink and that therefore his body would not be buried in the tomb of his fathers. As the man of God traveled toward home a lion met him on the road and killed him, and his body was thrown down on the road, with both the donkey and the lion standing beside it. People who passed by saw the body and reported it in the city where the old prophet lived. The prophet went and found the body, picked it up, laid it on the donkey, and brought it back to his own city to mourn for him and bury him. He laid the body in his own tomb, and they mourned over him and he told his sons that he wanted to be buried in the grave where the man of God was buried. He proclaimed that the message he had declared by the word of the LORD against the altar in Bethel and against all the shrines on the high places in the towns of Samaria would certainly come true. Jeroboam still did not change his evil ways, but once more appointed priests for the high places from all sorts of people. Anyone who wanted to become a priest he consecrated for the high places. This was the sin of the house of Jeroboam that led to its downfall and to its destruction from the face of the earth.

Madisonville Man Dies In One-Car Accident

A Madisonville man died Saturday as a result of a single-vehicle accident on Union Temple Road.

According to the Hopkins County Sheriff's Department, Danny Stokes was operating a 1995 Geo Tracker southbound on Union Temple Road when he apparently dropped off the edge of the road. It appeared that Stokes over corrected and lost control of the vehicle, which crossed the northbound lane and rolled onto its top in a water-filled ditch.

A passerby noticed the vehicle and notified emergency personnel. Stokes was found seat belted and partially submerged in water. Alcohol was a possible factor in the accident. The amount of time between the crash and notification of emergency personnel is not known. Investigation into the cause of the accident and death is ongoing.

The sheriff's office was assisted at the scene by St. Charles Volunteer Fire Department, Medical Center Ambulance Service and Kentucky State Police. Deputy Troy Gossett was the reporting deputy.

Henderson Man Arrested For Drug Trafficking

Joseph Biggers, 24, of Henderson, was arrested June 10 after investigators from the Hopkins County Sheriff's Office and Pennyriple Narcotics Task Force conducted a controlled buy/bust of hydrocodone.

Biggers conducted the transaction in Hanson. Deputies were standing by to execute a traffic stop after the transaction. Upon stopping the vehicle, Biggers was found to be driving on a suspended license and had possession of the recorded buy money. He was lodged in the Hopkins County Detention Center, charged with trafficking in a controlled substance and operating on a suspended license.

Detective Shawn Bean was the reporting deputy.

Man Arrested For Sexual Relations With Minor

The Hopkins County Sheriff's Department arrested Brian Nelson, 31, Monday after an investigation revealed Nelson was involved in a sexual relationship with a 15-year-old juvenile.

Nelson was charged with four counts of sodomy and one count of unlawful transaction with a minor. He was lodged in the Hopkins County Detention Center.

Detective Jonathan Barnes was the reporting deputy.

Online Course Offered For Graduated Driver License

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has announced an online version of the Graduated Driver License course for teaching safe driving techniques to beginning drivers.

The online program represents a fourth option for completing the course, which is required before a learner's permit can be replaced with an unrestricted driver's license.

Until now three options were available:

- A four-hour Graduated Driver License course provided by KYTC in the driver's home county. The course is offered for free, and at least two courses are held per year in each of the state's 120 counties.
- High school driver's education course or a similar course offered by a Kentucky community college, vocational school or Job Corps.
- Private driver training course at a driver training school approved by the KYTC Division of Driver Licensing.

The new fourth option is an online course administered by I Drive Safely, a driver education Web site.

"Our hope is to make options available for every situation," said Rodney Kuhl, KYTC commissioner of the Department of Vehicle Regulation. "We understand people have busy schedules, and this new online option just adds another convenient way for those struggling to find time for our classroom course."

The online course, which costs $15, takes about four hours to complete. The course can be taken when convenient for the driver and at the driver's own pace, as long as the course is completed within 270 days of the initiated login. The money charged for the course is collected by the Web site administering the course, not by the state.

Approximately 35,000 students take the Graduated Driver License course each year. Students taking the online course may have to wait 24 to 48 hours before completion of the course shows up on their driving records. But after the course is complete, a confirmation e-mail will be sent to the student. The course is available online at <http://teen.idrivesafely.com/Kentucky/>.

Once drivers have completed the course, along with other requirements under Kentucky's Graduated Driver License Law, they are eligible for an unrestricted driver's license. More Companies Expected To Sell Health Policies

By Jack Brammer
Lexington Herald-Leader

More insurance companies are expressing an interest in selling policies on Kentucky's health-benefit exchange next year — a move state officials say will benefit consumers.

All five insurance companies that sold policies this year on the exchange known as Kynect want to come back for 2015, and at least one other — CareSource — wants to join them.

State officials said they are optimistic that several other insurers will file in the next few weeks to sell policies in the coming year on the exchange. Kynect is an online insurance marketplace offering health insurance plans for Kentuckians. It was created last year by Gov. Steve Beshear, as called for in the federal Affordable Care Act.

Cabinet for Health and Family Services Secretary Audrey Tayse Haynes said her cabinet, which oversees Kynect, is "extremely pleased to welcome additional insurers to the exchange and the expanded options they offer to consumers."

With more choices, Haynes said, "we hope even more Kentuckians will take the time to shop and compare plans on Kynect."

Five insurance companies were on the Kentucky exchange this year: Anthem, Humana, Bluegrass Family Health, United Healthcare of Kentucky, and Kentucky Health Cooperative.

All of them except Humana provided small group market insurance on the exchange, which describes small group market as two to 50 employees. Three — Humana, Anthem and Kentucky Health Cooperative — provided individual coverage.

The insurer that has filed to join in 2015 is CareSource, based in Dayton, Ohio.

Asked why CareSource is interested in Kynect, Jonathan Copley, executive director of the company's Kentucky market, said CareSource's participation in Kynect is "an extension of our commitment to provide affordable coverage to Kentuckians who need it most."

He said CareSource is a nonprofit with a 25-year history of serving uninsured populations and has a membership of more than 1 million.

The state had set a "soft" deadline of April 1 for insurers to file to be on the exchange in 2015 but has extended it because of various inquiries.

It expects to know by early September exactly how many insurers have filed for next year's exchange.

About 421,000 Kentuckians enrolled for health-care coverage through Kynect in its first open-enrollment period, from Oct. 1 through March 31.

The next enrollment period will begin Nov. 15 for coverage effective Jan. 1.

Larry Levitt, a health policy expert at the Kaiser Family Foundation, told the newspaper that insurers continue to see the new exchanges as "a good business opportunity."

"They see it as an attractive market, with enrollment expected to ramp up in the second year."

More Than 100 Miners Recalled At Patriot Coal

By Chuck Stinnett
The Gleaner

Patriot Coal Corp. said it has recalled more than 100 miners at its Highland 9 underground mine in Union County near the Henderson County line as it begins to restart production.

The mine was idled May 6 after a structural failure damaged a portion of the Camp Preparation Plant several miles away where the mine's coal is cleaned and processed for shipment.

Patriot corporate spokeswoman Janine Orf said in an e-mail message that "limited production" has begun, and the company still expects "that the complex will resume full operation by the end of June," as it announced a month ago.

Patriot said in May that limited production might begin before June 30 after the preparation plant was repaired sufficiently to resume partial coal processing operations.

During the first quarter of this year, Highland employed 480 people, including 458 underground and 22 above ground, according to the federal Mine Safety and Health Administration.

While the mine has been idled, most of Highland's employees weren't scheduled to work (although they weren't formally laid off) and were eligible for unemployment insurance.

Platts, an energy, petrochemicals, metals and agriculture news service, reported June 9 that Highland had recalled 118 miners. It cited Steve Earle, a UMW international executive board member in Madisonville, as its source.

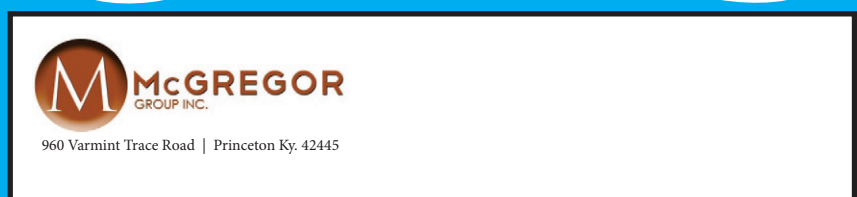

When operating at capacity, the Highland complex can ship approximately 3.8 million tons of coal annually and employs more than 500 people, according to Patriot.

Highland ranked second in tons of coal produced from among the company's 11 mines in 2013 with just over 2.9 million tons, according to MSHA. It would have ranked as the biggest mine had it been operating at full capacity.

ABOUT TOWN

By Scott

Cable company is after new customer

Some would want us to believe that bigger is always better. They want us to believe that bigger companies provide more and better services. They want us to believe economies of scale make bigger companies more competitive and more profitable. This isn't always the case as anyone who has ever tried to deal with AT&T can surely attest. In many places customers have other options, but in Dawson Springs, like many other small towns in rural areas, technology has not been offered to the extent it has in America's larger cities and urban areas.

A bit more than a year ago, The Progress changed the Internet service from AT&T's DSL service to something they call U-Verse. That has been a good change for us. The newer service has faster download speeds and is just about as reliable. (We have heard of other customers who haven't received as dependable a service when they switched.) However, we still receive calls from AT&T's sales people wanting us to switch from DSL to U-Verse. Some of them will even argue that we do not have U-Verse. Isn't it great dealing with AT&T?

And then we've recently dealt with another company that is too big, Time Warner. They are the company which provides cable television service in our little town.

Dawson Springs was one of the first small towns in Kentucky with cable television when the system was built in the mid 1960s. There was an expansion of the system in the late 1980s, but since then there has been little or no improvement. We still don't have high definition, and the channel selection is very limited.

Because of this, we venture to guess more than half of the cable company's customers have moved to digital television via satellite.

Also, because the current system is analog and not digital, many other products have not been offered in Dawson Springs, including Internet and telephone services.

At least that's what we thought. A couple of weeks ago, we received a call from a Time Warner sales representative — at least that's who he said she was. A very good deal was offered to provide us with Internet and phone service through Dawson Springs' cable television provider, even though we have been told on more than one occasion by Times Warner employees these services are not available in Dawson Springs.

These offers have been made available for the past several years. We often have received previous offers through junk mail from our cable television provider to upgrade to what they would call business class service. This service included high speed Internet and telephone.

Many times we walked across the street to the old cable office and handed the card with the offer to who is now a retired employee and a friend. We would both laugh as she would say, "Scott, now you know we don't have that here." After several of my trips across the street, she seemed to get a bit tired of my bringing her these offers.

Numerous times I told the sales lady on the phone these services are not available through the cable system in Dawson Springs. However, she was persistent. So persistent she e-mailed me a contract to sign for services which were not exactly what I have now through AT&T, but close, and at a considerable savings.

The lady and her supervisor even provided a "site survey" which indicated our address is "serviceable" and there would be no cost contribution required.

Again, I talked with local Time Warner employees, and again was told the services are not available in Dawson Springs.

When I told the sales people this, they again referred to the site survey. My next response was to ask for names of anyone in Dawson Springs who is receiving this service from Time Warner. No names were given as they cited confidentiality reasons. It appears this company is so large and out of touch, one hand has no idea what the other is doing.

Although the sales people always insisted they work for Time Warner, the e-mails also list a company named Sunrise Communications.

If anyone in Dawson Springs receives telephone and/or Internet service from Time Warner, I would like to know. It may even be a good idea to tell Time Warner's own employees.

Hopefully this doesn't sound too true to be funny...

—Tim decided to tie the knot with his long-time girlfriend. One evening, after the honeymoon, he was assembling some loads for an upcoming hunt.

His wife was standing there at the bench watching him. After a long period of silence she finally spoke up.

"Honey, I've been thinking, now that we are married I think it's time you quit hunting, shooting, handloading and fishing. Maybe you should sell your guns and boat."

Tim got a horrified look on his face. She said, "Darling, what's wrong?"

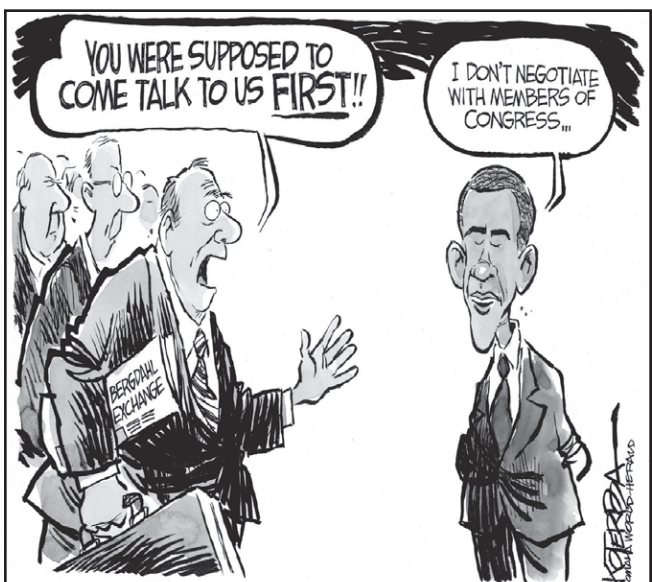

"There for a minute you were sounding like my ex-wife."

"Ex-wife!" she screamed, "I didn't know you were married before."

"I wasn't!"

Pension problem is a monster

By Jim Waters

Godzilla is back. But even the $176 million spent so far by moviegoers to see the "King of the Monsters" in action is a drop in the bucket compared to what's needed to fix Kentucky's public-pension system and its $35 billion unfunded liability.

In less than 15 years, the commonwealth's retirement fund for its non-hazardous state workers — the Kentucky Employees Retirement System — went from being one of the nation's healthiest state pension funds to its sickest.

In 2000, the KERS was so robust that it was more than fully funded at 113.2 percent. Now, it's become "the nation's most poorly-funded state pension" with only 23 percent of the assets needed to cover its $11.3 billion in retirement commitments and $8.26 billion of unfunded liabilities, according to a recent Reuters report.

"Should the 41,000 active employees, 40,000 inactive employees and 37,000 retirees in Kentucky be worried about the security of their pensions?" the report asks. "Given recent events, they probably should."

One of those events is the ruling by U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Joan Lloyd that Seven Counties Services, which serves 32,000 mentally challenged Kentuckians and has filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy, is a private, non-profit corporation and therefore cannot be forced to remain in the KERS.

The judge ruled that the state has an "inviolable contract" with the organization's employees and will have to cover the nearly $1 billion in additional pension contributions during the next 20 years as a result of the charitable agency's exit from the system.

The state in its desperation to keep Seven Counties' decision from being repeated by the system's many other similar entities has spent $1.2 million just in legal fees to keep the agency from exiting KERS.

Lloyd's ruling rightly recognizes that the public retirement system's problem isn't the fault of state workers, most of whom receive modest pensions. She ruled that while the "private, nonprofit" entity can proceed with its bankruptcy, the state still has an obligation to Seven Counties' employees.

After all, is it the fault of employees who simply accept benefits offered by their employers?

The judge also rightly recognized that the politicians in Frankfort will have to figure out how to feed it without taking the food from state workers' tables.

"When the monster grows, you must feed it or risk its wrath," said Lowell Reese, publisher of Kentucky Roll Call and author of "Future Shock," a series of Bluegrass Institute reports on Kentucky's public pension system.

One of the ways the state grew this "monster" is by allowing non-governmental agencies into the pension system in the first place.

Legislators created a real quandary: they wanted the political benefit that came from obtaining taxpayer-funded pensions for their political pals in nongovernmental agencies, but now face impossible decisions as these same entities decide to leave the system because they cannot possibly pay 40 percent of their entire revenues in pension contributions and still perform their charitable duties.

We see the dilemma in the response of Sen. Chris McDaniel, R-Latonia, who backs addressing the presence of so many nongovernmental entities in the Bluegrass State's public pension system and yet publicly states that he hopes the state retirement system will fight the exit of Seven Counties because he fears the precedent being set by the agency's decision and ensuing court decision.

McDaniel and his colleagues know that if these nongovernmental agencies leave the system, there's more pain spread among fewer contributors.

In fact, if all similar agencies were to leave, the remaining employers would need to pay an additional $2.4 billion over the next two decades to adequately cover costs.

Of all the policies that threaten to strangle Kentucky's economy, the pension crisis is "King of the Monsters."

Gun deaths keep coming

Another day, another shooting — each equally horrific but all beginning to run together with numbingly familiar frequency and similarity.

Two Las Vegas Police officers Sunday, an Oregon high school student Tuesday, college students on two different campuses recently. An armed assault on a Georgia courthouse Friday, thankfully stopped by police.

And this is just the past few weeks.

What do the shooters have in common? Most are mentally disturbed.

Several, including the Las Vegas husband and wife who gunned down two Las Vegas police officers and a random Walmart shopper, held extremist, anti-government views that this nation must begin to take more seriously.

And all had easy access to firearms in a culture that has left the country seemingly helpless to prevent such incidents of fatal shootings of innocent people at stores, restaurants, churches, movie theaters, work and school — including the 20 small children and six adults slain in the seeming safety of their Sandy Hook Elementary School in Connecticut in 2010.

Yet most elected officials continue to cower under the brazen claims of gun extremists that this is what the Founding Fathers meant in the 2nd Amendment guaranteeing "the right of people to keep and bear arms."

The Las Vegas shooters, husband and wife Jerad and Amanda Miller, shouted revolutionary slogans and draped a swastika and a "Don't Tread on Me" flag, a tea party symbol, over the body of one slain officer. Recently, they had joined the anti-government militia at the Nevada ranch of Cliven Bundy, who is fighting the government's effort to collect what he owes in cattle grazing fees.

Two weeks ago, the California father of a student slain at random near a Santa Barbara campus appealed for public to stand up to the onslaught of gun violence. The gunman, Elliot Rodger, a former college student with emotional problems, also fatally shot two female students — both strangers — to punish women for rejecting his advances, and he fatally stabbed three men at his apartment complex.

"Why did Chris die?" demanded Richard Martinez, whose son was shot by the angry gunman seeking revenge for social rejection.

"Chris died because of craven, irresponsible politicians and the NRA," Mr. Martinez said.

The NRA — National Rifle Association — which used to be a respectable, albeit a conservative, group representing mostly hunters, has sided with the extremists demanding the right to tote assault rifles in public. It is now the face of the gun madness.

We continue to hope more rational minds prevail in efforts to enact sensible gun laws. But that day seems a long way off. And the shootings keep coming nearly every day.

‘TEMPERATURE INSIDE CAR CAN RISE 19 DEGREES IN 10 MINUTES’

Children Are At Danger When Left Inside Hot Car

The Kentucky State Police remind parents not to leave a child alone in a hot car as temperatures in the Bluegrass are on the rise. It may seem like common sense, but every year law enforcement agencies answer calls about unattended children in vehicles. The National Safety Council reports nine children have already died in 2014 from being left in hot cars across the U.S.

An ongoing study by San Francisco State University estimates that since 1998, 615 heatstroke deaths have occurred in children left in vehicles, an average of 38 deaths per year. Most of those deaths were children under the age of 2.

In 2000, Kentucky passed Bryan’s Law, which makes a person liable for second-degree manslaughter or first-degree wanton endangerment for leaving a child younger than 8 years of age in a motor vehicle where circumstances pose a grave risk of death. The law was named after 11-month-old Bryan Packett, who died July 13, 1999, after being left in a hot car by his babysitter.

KSP spokesman Sgt. Michael Webb says most people know the dangers of leaving a child in a hot car, but each year these senseless tragedies continue to occur.

“A child’s body heats up three to five times faster than that of an adult,” said Webb. “The temperature inside a car can rise 19 degrees in 10 minutes. Together, this can be deadly in a very short period of time.”

Kentucky’s last reported death from a child being left in a car was during 2012 in Louisville. The NSC reports that 44 children died last year from vehicular heatstroke in the U.S.

Webb offers the following safety tips:

—Never leave a child in an unattended car, even with the windows down.

—Be sure that all occupants leave the vehicle when unloading. Don’t overlook sleeping babies.

—Always lock the car. If a child is missing, check the car first, including the trunk. Teach children that vehicles are never to be used as a play area.

—Keep a stuffed animal in the car seat and when the child is put in the seat, place the animal in the front with the driver as a reminder.

—Place purses or briefcases in the back seat as a reminder that the child is in the car.

—Make “look before you leave” a routine when exiting the car.

Webb says while a person will face criminal charges for leaving a child in a car, the pain and guilt from making such a mistake will last far longer.

KSP asks citizens to keep an eye out for children left in vehicles on hot days and to call 911 if the occupant could be in danger.

‘Big Step’ Announced For I-69 Completion

person to the Tennessee border at Fulton. Completion of the corridor requires improvements to portions of three Kentucky parkways, all of which originally were toll roads — the Breathitt-Pennyrile, Ford-Western Kentucky and Carroll-Purchase parkways.

To date, 55 miles of the corridor are complete, roughly from Nortonville to the interchange of I-24 and the Carroll-Purchase Parkway near Gilbertsville, and the route now bears the red, white and blue shields of I-69. In October 2011, Beshear and Victor Mendez, the federal highway administrator at the time, unveiled the first I-69 shield near Nortonville.

One of the main challenges of the entire I-69 project has been the need to rebuild interchanges that were designed to accommodate drivers who were slowing and stopping at toll plazas as opposed to merging with or exiting from 70 mph interstate traffic. Reconstruction of the Ky. 416 interchange in Henderson County is underway, as is reconstruction of the Pennyrile Parkway-Western Kentucky Parkway interchange. Two remaining interchanges — at Ky. 56 near Sebree and at Mortons Gap — may be put up for bids later this month and in January 2015, respectively. The remaining portion of the I-69 Corridor is scheduled to have signs in place in late 2015.

Shower Will Benefit Family

Charleston Baptist Church will host a household shower for Keith Steely Saturday from noon to 2 p.m.

The mobile home on Lisanby Point Road where Steely and his daughter lived was recently destroyed by fire.

Breathitt Parkway Exit 42 Ramp Is Closed Saturday

The Breathitt-Pennyrile Parkway northbound exit ramp at the Ky. 70 interchange in Hopkins County will be closed Saturday morning for asphalt paving as part of an ongoing rehabilitation project along the Pennyrile. The ramp at Madisonville Exit 42 will close at 6 a.m. and is expected to re-open to traffic around noon.

There will be no marked detour. However, motorists may self-detour by continuing north on the Pennyrile to the Ky. 281 interchange at Madisonville Exit 44 and looping through the interchange to access Ky. 70 by the Pennyrile Parkway southbound.

This is part of an ongoing work zone for asphalt paving and rehabilitation along the Pennyrile Parkway from mile point 37.07 to mile point 42.418 in Hopkins County. This work zone runs from the Mortons Gap interchange at Exit 37 to the Ky. 70 Madisonville interchange at Exit 42. The rehab project includes repairs to a land slip at the Exit 42 interchange.

Appropriate caution is required where equipment, flaggers and construction personnel are along the road in close proximity to traffic flow.

Motorists should be alert for merging and slowing traffic as they approach the work zone. Road Builders, LLC is the prime contractor on this $2,663,988 highway improvement project. The anticipated completion date is June 30.

State Gasoline Prices Rising

Average retail gasoline prices in Kentucky have risen 6.3 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $3.77 per gallon Sunday, according to GasBuddy’s daily survey of 2,623 gas outlets in Kentucky. This compares with the national average that has increased 1.8 cents per gallon in the past week to $3.65 per gallon.

Gas prices in Dawson Springs Tuesday afternoon were $3.56, $3.59 and $3.69 per gallon, the same as one week ago.

Including the change in gas prices in Kentucky during the past week, prices Sunday were 19.9 cents per gallon higher than the same day one year ago and are 4.7 cents per gallon higher than a month ago. The national average has increased 2.6 cents per gallon during the past month and stands 3.7 cents per gallon higher than this day one year ago.

“The national average has stayed relatively flat for the last month, but that appears to be over, as the escalating situation in Iraq takes hold and drives crude oil and retail gasoline prices higher,” said GasBuddy.com Senior Petroleum Analyst Patrick DeHaan. “Motorists in some areas of the country have already seen slight price increases, and although the situation is still in its early stages, motorists should be ready for higher gasoline prices if the situation in Iraq threatens the ability of Iraq to export crude oil. While the U.S. only receives about 300,000 barrels of Iraqi crude per day, the concern is about the other 3 million or so barrels per day that Iraq pumps, which could be at risk of disruption. It’s that perceived threat that may cause the national average this week to rise 3 to 6 cents per gallon. The bigger picture here is that the timing of the situation in Iraq could threaten the possibility that motorists see lower prices this summer, as we had anticipated in our much earlier forecasts.”

Meeting Coach Cal

Former Dawson Springs resident Randy Hatley and his son Ethan Hatley (age 8), now of Franklin, Tenn., recently attended John Calipari's father/son basketball camp. They are the son and grandson of Richard and Ruby Hatley, Dawson Springs. The camp was held at Memorial Coliseum and the Joe Craft Center on the University of Kentucky campus June 6-7. The Hatleys won the hot shot contest during the camp and got to meet the UK basketball coach. This was one of three father/son camps that UK hosted this year.

A sit-and-chat-awhile list, who would be on yours?

Getting old, how much dearer the afternoons. How mellow and pleasing, the quiet. We see more, listen better and hold the tongue more easily than before. Minutes have new value and hours can be sweet as strawberry ripple in June. And melt at much the same speed.

At dusk fire flies kindle fond memories on the front porch and a breeze simply has to be a kiss from angels. When sun climbs down to a tree line, if you're like me, a grateful sigh comes along followed by a barely audible whisper, "thank you ... for this day."

Sun sets are dearer too and we're more circumspect about life. For me, from places I've traveled, people I've known, read about, admired (and not), a question always rises. The one in this photograph.

With whom would I most like to have a sit-on-a-bench-and-chat-awhile experience? And, what question would I most like an answer?

Who would be on your list? This week, at random, a few on mine.

Mark Twain. If you had a re-write for, "I have been on the verge of being an angel all my life, but it's never happened yet," how would it go?

WP. 'Bill' Kinsella. Your novel Shoeless Joe (1982) became arguably the best sports motion picture of all time. What did you think of Field Of Dreams?

Roberto Clemente. We miss you. Tell me, what's it like, Heaven?

Ted Williams.

Explain your thinking on having your head frozen for eternity?

Mark McGuire. Didn't have to cheat, did you, big guy?

Pete Rose. Cheating for more money earned a ban from Baseball's Hall of Fame. Why is "I'm sorry," not enough?

Ed O'Bannon. Are you proud being point man to make college basketball into a professional sport?

Dan Snyder. Embattled owner of Washington's NFL team, this question: When you step to line of scrimmage at th Great Super Bowl in the sky, what if Referee is native American?

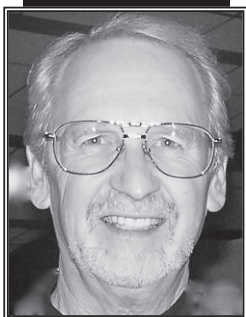

Roy Williams. Will Rashad McCants' teammates bring out their transcripts? Fair enough, right Roy?

Laura Hillenbrand. Author of best sellers Sea Biscuit and more recently Unbroken, explain the blending of precision research and delicious prose.

George Clooney. Long before the glam, what were your dreams, and best of times at Augusta High School in Bracken County?

Barry Bonds. Ironic isn't it, your legacy? One of best there ever was ... on same list with another racist, Ty Cobb?

SPORTS IN KENTUCKY

BOB WATKINS

Jay Bilas. Being the mass media's Mahatma, knowing how to solve all things NCAA, will you apply to be its next president?

Marshall Henderson. Tell me about yourself, kid? Where do you expect to be in five years?

Billy Donovan. When you declined the Kentucky job was it the best decision of your professional life, or not?

Larry Bird. In chill of an Indiana winter when the movie Hoosiers comes on television what do you think about?

Bill Mazeroski. Evening of October 13, 1960, after a World Series Game 7 walk-off home run, you and wife Milene drove to the top of Mt. Washington above Pittsburgh watched the celebration. In those pinnacle moments what does a hero talk about?

Rick Pitino. All your celebrity aside, you could have done something extraordinary back there in 1992, but chose to ignore extraordinary opportunity to save an extraordinary little Catholic high school. Why?

Rick Atkinson. From The Day of Battle, The War in Sicily and Italy, tell me about the passage: "... the circling stars glided on their courses. The poets and the dreamers again struck their tents and shouldered their rifles to begin that long, last march."

Seneca The Elder (54 BC–39 AD) wrote: "It is not the man who has too little, but the man who craves more, who is poor." I wager you're not surprised at how profoundly your observation applies today?

Harry Caudill. With Night Comes to the Cumberland in mind, what say you about today's so-called War On Coal?

Mr. Lincoln. What say you about a nation conflicted, divided by greed and racial hatred? Not in 1865, but 2014?

Isham Sharp. Would you start at the beginning, please, Grandpa?

Finally ...

Rick Reilly. A chat wouldn't do it. Too many questions. So, forgive me please, Rick, for stealing two lines from your last work as a sports columnist:

"No writer in history is more flawed than me, but it was never for lack of trying. It was always in my attempt to get to the truth, or to make it fun, or to make it add up to something meaningful to you."

And so it goes.

Channel catfish spawn brings good fishing

By LEE McCLELLAN
Kentucky Afield Outdoors

Water temperatures are climbing into the upper 70s, sending channel catfish to rocky banks in reservoirs to spawn. June is one of the most productive months to fish for them.

"Channels like crevices to spawn such as rocky areas or stumpy areas," said Gerry Buynak, assistant director of fisheries for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "They like protecting their eggs in those crevices. Catfish are susceptible to bank anglers."

You don't need to spend a ton for good channel cat-fishing equipment. A 7- to 9-foot long medium-heavy to heavy power fiberglass spinning rod and matching reel spooled with 20- to 30-pound abrasion resistant monofilament line will land most channel catfish. Many anglers use a ½-ounce egg sinker on the main line above a barrel swivel with an 18-inch leader of 20-pound fluorocarbon line.

A 4/0 circle hook works wonders for this style of fishing as the catfish can take the bait for a long time without fear of a deep gut hook. Circle hooks usually catch a catfish in the corner of the mouth. Remember to resist the impulse to set the hook; slowly tighten the line until the catfish hooks itself.

Channel catfish are mainly bottom scavengers with a highly tuned sense of smell. Bait that stinks or bleeds works best. The low light periods of dusk and dark and just before dawn are the best times to catch them in June.

People have used just about anything that gives off scent to catch channel catfish. Bar soap, candy orange slices, offal left out in the sun, rancid cheese, fish guts and the innards of squirrels have all been impaled on a hook and cast for channels.

Walmart FLW Tour heads to Kentucky Lake

FLW Outdoors news release

The sixth and final regular-season event in the 19th season of the major leagues of professional bass-fishing, the Walmart FLW Tour, kicks off June 26-29 with the Walmart FLW Tour at Kentucky Lake in Paris, Tenn., presented by Evinrude.

Hosted by the Henry County Alliance, the tournament will feature a full field of the world's best bass-fishing pros and co-anglers casting for top awards of up to $125,000 cash in the pro division and up to $25,000 cash in the co-angler division.

"The fishing is going to be real good, no doubt about it," said Livingston Lures pro Andy Morgan, the reigning Kellogg's Angler of the Year and current points leader coming in to the final event. "There are going to be a lot of bass caught. There is a ton of off-shore structure and I think the tournament will be won fishing 20-feet or deeper."

Morgan said that key factors throughout the week would be bait selection and equipment performance.

"You need to have faith in your equipment if you're going to make those long runs," Morgan said. "It's very fitting that Evinrude is the presenting sponsor for this event because I have a lot of faith in my equipment. It doesn't matter how many fish you catch during the day, if you don't make it back to the marina you don't get any credit for it."

In FLW Tour competition, anglers are also vying for valuable points in hopes of qualifying for the 2014 Forrest Wood Cup, the world championship of bass fishing. The 2014 Forrest Wood Cup will be in Columbia, S.C., Aug. 14-17 on Lake Murray and is hosted by Capital City Lake Murray Country. Anglers could win as much as $500,000 — professional bass-fishing's richest prize.

Anglers will take off from Paris Landing State Park located at 6:30 a.m. each day of competition. Thursday and Friday's weigh-ins will be held at Paris Landing beginning at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday's final weigh-ins will be held at Walmart in Paris beginning at 4 p.m.

Fans will also be treated to the FLW Expo at

However, just a few baits consistently catch channel catfish in reservoirs: cut pieces of shad or skipjack herring, nightcrawlers, chicken livers, shrimp and prepared commercial stink or dip baits. Cheap hot dogs soaked overnight in syrup made from unsweetened strawberry Kool-Aid combined with a couple tablespoons of minced garlic make really productive channel cat bait.

"We used to catch many channel catfish from big boulder outcrops on Lake Barkley in June," Buynak said. "We caught them on nightcrawlers."

In addition to rocky banks and points, the softball-sized riprap rock used to armor the bank around marinas on both of these lakes holds June channel catfish. The riprap around bridge approaches also hold fish.

The tailwater areas of both of these lakes have consistently productive channel catfishing with excellent bank access. Cut shad or skipjack herring fished on the riprap that armors the bank just below both dams produces channel cats nearly year round.

Central Kentucky's Taylorsville Lake has several excellent bank fishing spots for channel catfish. Maj. Shane Carrier, assistant director of law enforcement for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, patrolled the lake for years as a conservation officer.

"The area around Van Buren Boat Ramp and Chowning Lane Boat Ramp are good June spots," he said. "There is riprap around those ramps and rocky shorelines as well and they catch a lot of fish." He also recommends the ADA accessible fishing platform at Possum Ridge Boat Ramp for channel cats.

Carrier said anglers catch many catfish from the face of the dam on Taylorsville. A parking lot and bathroom facilities await anglers there, but they must negotiate a steep hill.

Barren River Lake in southern Kentucky holds an Walmart on Saturday and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. prior to the final weigh-ins. The Expo includes Ranger boat simulators, a Chevy Truck Tour, the opportunity to interact with professional anglers, enjoy interactive games, activities and giveaways provided by sponsors, and fans can learn more about the sport of fishing and other outdoor activities. All activities are free and open to the public.

The Kentucky Lake tournament will be broadcast in high-definition on NBC Sports Network when "FLW" airs Sept. 7 from 7 p.m.-8 p.m. The Emmy-nominated "FLW" television show is hosted by Jason Harper and is broadcast to more than 564 million households worldwide, making it the most widely distributed weekly outdoors-sports television show in the world.

excellent population of large channel catfish. Anglers should target rocky shorelines with chicken livers, stink bait or strawberry and garlic soaked hotdogs. Bank anglers may fish at Barren River State Resort Park, Quarry Road Recreation Area near the dam, the Tailwater Recreation Area just below the dam and at the Port Oliver Boat Ramp. Port Oliver has ADA accessible fishing structures and lot of bank fishing room. The Barren River Lake Wildlife Management Area in the Peter's Creek Arm also has a fishing pier and bank fishing.

Dewey Lake and Yatesville Lake in east Kentucky both have burgeoning populations of channel catfish. Target flats near the channel in the upper section of Dewey Lake. Jenny Wiley State Resort Park offers a wealth of bank fishing in this part of the lake.

Yatesville Lake also holds impressive numbers of channel catfish. The riprap lined banks near the Yatesville Lake State Park Marina hold June channel catfish as does the fishing jetty near the marina.

Maj. Carrier reminds anglers they may not fish from ramps or their courtesy docks.

Get out now and catch some channel catfish. They bite willingly all summer long and taste fantastic.

A WEEKLY SPIN AROUND THE WORLD OF RACING

BUCKET LIST VICTORY

Johnson wins Quicken Loans 400, records first career win at Michigan

It's said that racetracks don't owe anyone anything. Rarely, if ever, will you hear a driver, following a victory, proclaim that "this old place owed us one" after a string of disappointments finally results in paydirt.

In racing it's taboo to suggest that the reason one loses is because of the track. Instead, a driver and team take the onus upon themselves; they should have prepared harder, executed better or employed a different strategy. Take credit when you win, take the blame when you lose. There are no excuses.

And surely no one is "owed" anything.

Jimmie Johnson and Chad Knaus know this all too well. The most successful and feared driver-crew chief duo in NASCAR have won nearly everything there is to win in the sport over a dominant 12-plus-year reign.

Six championships. Four wins each in the Brickyard 400 and the All-Star Race. Two apiece at fickle Darlington and treacherous Talladega. And, of course, a pair of Harley J. Earl trophies courtesy of Daytona 500 triumphs. If it's prestigious and pays big money, their No. 48 team has conquered it.

That's what made their unfortunate luck at Michigan International Speedway over the years so peculiar. On a number of occasions the team has seen defeat clutched from its seemingly victorious hands. Flat tires, blown engines, empty fuel cells — the one team that's consistently made its own luck elsewhere has had it thrown back in their face in 24 previous visits to the Irish Hills.

As fate would have it, Johnson, Knaus and crew slayed their white whale on a day when they didn't have the fastest car. For once, the hills smiled down on them. The Quicken Loans 400 is no "crown jewel" NASCAR event, but it is one of the last few new triumphs the group that has won most everything can enjoy.

"I heard 10 (laps) to go, and I've been there before with the lead," Johnson said of his poor Michigan luck. "I heard 5 to go — I've been there before and didn't win; (I've) taken the white (flag) with the lead and didn't make it back. So I wasn't taking anything for granted on that final trip around, and about 200 yards before the finish line I knew if the car exploded I'd still slide across the finish line and it didn't matter.

"That's finally when I relaxed and let it go."

Perhaps Johnson should "relax and let it go" at the four other tracks where he has yet to cash in. His record at Chicagoland Speedway, with seven top 5s in 12 starts, is impressive yet there are no W's. Also, it's now NASCAR's first stop in the 10-race Chase for the Championship — and the 48 team's ability to turn it on when it counts is legendary.

An absence of wins at Kentucky Speedway is excusable in that the sample size is a mere three events. Watkins Glen, the tricky-fast road course in upstate New York, has played host to a pair of Johnson pole wins, yet no Sunday victories.

And then there's Homestead-Miami Speedway. His lack of a trophy here is explained away in the fact that Johnson has never had to win on the 1.5-mile track. In six of his 13 starts he's simply had to finish seventh, ninth, 13th ... whatever ... to wrap up a title. There were bigger matters on the agenda.

Johnson's 2010 season was a "bucket list" year of sorts. Nine years into his undeniable Hall of Fame career, Johnson tamed the bullring of Bristol and the Sonoma roadie (if there's one flaw in this driver's arsenal, it's his road course acumen) en route to a record-extending fifth consecutive title.

With three wins at aero-sensitive venues already in the bag this year, might the 48 team — a team suddenly hitting on all cylinders — score an additional win on an intermediate brethren?

NASCAR's new game show of a championship format is expected to reward winning (as opposed to consistency) above all else — at least that's the narrative. A victory in the opening round at Chicagoland is an automatic transfer to the next round. And the ultimate triumph — in a winner-take-all showdown in Homestead, Fla. — would most likely deliver a record-tying seventh championship to the team.

Obtaining those bucket list wins would have meaning far beyond simply checking a heretofore accomplishment off the to-do list.

NEWS & NOTES

REJOICE, MENARD EMPIRE! Paul Menard earned his second career NASCAR Nationwide Series win on Saturday at Michigan. The Ollie's Bargain Outlet 250 was Joey Logano's to lose, as he enjoyed a sizable lead until a tire on his Ford went flat on lap 120 of 125. Menard inherited the top spot and led the final five laps uncontested en route to his first NNS victory since June 2006 at the Milwaukee Mile.

BUBBA SCORE ANOTHER Darrell "Bubba" Wallace Jr. became the first African American driver in history to win two NASCAR national touring series races when he took checkers at Gateway Motorsports Park on Friday. Wallace led a race-high 85 of 160 laps in his Kyle Busch Motorsports Tundra and survived an aggressive race in the Camping World Truck Series' return to the Madison, Ill., track. NASCAR last visited the facility in 2010, prior to it being shuttered. Now under new ownership, the 1.25-mile facility hosted a raucous event that witnessed seven cautions and 12 lead changes.

BUILDER OF THE SPORT Famed engine builder, mechanic and team owner Ray Fox, a pioneer in the sport of NASCAR, passed away on Sunday in Daytona Beach, Fla. Fox, 98, was nominated for NASCAR's Hall of Fame classes in 2014 and 2015. One week prior, another legendary mechanic and team owner, Junie Donlavey, passed away at the age of 90. Though Donlavey is credited with only one premier series win, the list of drivers that manned his cars — like Fox's — reads like a Who's Who list of NASCAR greats.

To Your Good Health

By Keith Roach, M.D.

Key Signs Indicate Legionella Bacteria

DEAR DR. ROACH: I became extremely sick and was taken to the hospital. My physician thought I had regular pneumonia. I was so dehydrated that they couldn't find a vein. I was intubated and had trouble getting enough oxygen. I had dialysis. My family was told I probably would not live. They discovered that my illness was Legionella, and with treatment, I woke up from paralysis.

My recovery has been easy and fast, although I was told it would take a year at the least. I am finished with physical therapy. My blood work and scan show everything is back to normal. But I have scarring in my lungs.

I am a 47-year-old woman. What should I expect for my future? Are my kidneys at risk? Do I have a greater risk of contracting pneumonia in the future? What about my lungs? Is there permanent damage? What about allergy medicines and ibuprofen? I am afraid to have a glass of wine! -- C.K.

ANSWER: Legionella is a bacteria that can cause pneumonia. It is classically found in fresh water, such as air-conditioning cooling towers and condensers. It was thought to be the cause of the original outbreak among American Legionnaires back in 1976 in Philadelphia, hence the popular name of Legionnaires' disease. Once considered rare, increased awareness and better diagnostic tests have led to a greater understanding of this important cause of pneumonia.

It may look just like any other kind of pneumonia, but diarrhea and very high fever are clues that it might be Legionella. Liver problems are more common in Legionella infections, but the dialysis you received likely was due to kidney failure from severe shock and sepsis. Intubation -- having a breathing tube inserted into your windpipe -- and paralysis are reserved for only the very most severe pneumonias, and it is really great news that you are recovering so quickly and completely.

Being young (47) and female are good signs for recovery. Since your blood tests are normal, your kidneys apparently recovered completely. There is no reason not to use the same OTC medications you used before the pneumonia, and an occasional glass of wine is fine (but not too much).

Some scarring after pneumonia is common, and this indeed puts you at somewhat increased risk for future pneumonias. A vaccination for pneumonia will reduce the risk of the most common bacteria.

DEAR DR. ROACH: Why do heart attacks occur mostly in the morning and on Mondays? -- J.V.

ANSWER: Your statements are quite true. Heart attacks are three times more likely in the morning than in the evening, and 15 percent to 20 percent more likely on Mondays than on other days. Nobody knows exactly why. Mornings are thought to be more likely due to several factors: increased blood pressure, an increase in cortisone and having "stickier" platelets in the morning.

There are two main theories for the Monday phenomenon -- the first is back-to-work stress, but recently there has been some evidence that it may be excess alcohol intake over the weekend. These are good arguments for stress reduction and avoiding excess alcohol in the first place.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu. More Than 450 Attend PADD's Annual Dinner

The 45th annual dinner meeting of the Pennyryle Area Development District was held June 9 at the James E. Bruce Convention Center in Hopkinsville. More than 450 were in attendance.

The event, sponsored by Planters Bank of Hopkinsville, gives all local officials, legislators, business and civic leaders and others from throughout the Pennyryle the opportunity to look back on the year's activities.

PADD presented the W.W. "Bill" Bryan Memorial Award to Bill Corum. The award recognized Corum's leadership and dedication to improving transportation infrastructure across the Pennyryle Region.

In other business, board members Mark Bryant and Gareth Hardin, both citizen members of Crittenden County, and Lori Harper, citizen member of Christian County, were recognized for five years of service to the PADD Board of Directors. Lyn Bailey, mayor of Cadiz, and Bart Frazer, citizen member of Crittenden County, were recognized for 15 years of service. Christian County Judge Executive Steve Tribble was recognized for 20 years of service.

In addition, several citizen members from throughout the region were reappointed to serve for three-year terms. They were Bart Frazer, Crittenden County; Mayor Jenny Sewell of Dawson Springs, Hopkins County; Kim Kraemer, Livingston County; Mayor Lee McCollum and Denise Sutton, Lyon County; and Kim Humphries and John Sumner, Trigg County.

In presenting the annual report, Jason Vincent, executive director, thanked all those who contributed to the mission of PADD, stating that the goals of regionalism, sound planning, efficient coordination of programs and support to local government are more important now than they were 45 years ago.

Comedian Keith Albersstadt and pianist Ron Creager provided entertainment for the evening.

Rare Red Wolf Born At LBL's Nature Station

Land Between The Lakes National Recreation Area has announced the May 2 birth of a 3/4 pound female red wolf. The Woodlands Nature Station's captive endangered red wolves are the proud parents.

The new female pup is just emerging from her den and stretching her legs, followed by two very attentive and nervous parents. She will remain with her parents for at least 18 months and then be transferred to a zoo or nature center to start her own pack.

"As she gets older and braver, the little pup will become more visible. Right now she is still hard to see," commented Darrin Samborski, facility manager for the Nature Station.

The Nature Station has been involved with the Red Wolf Recovery Program since 1991, in partnership with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Seven of 40 captive breeding sites were selected to have puppies. The Nature Station was selected this year to preserve the genetic line of the male wolf, now age 13. Red wolves usually do not live past 14 years of age.

Red wolves once dominated southern forests prior to European settlement. As farmsteads and agriculture changed the landscape, red wolves quickly disappeared from many parts of the south. There are no red wolves in the wild at Land Between The Lakes, and there are no plans to reintroduce them.

"Coyotes and humans are direct competitors for resources with the shy red wolf. They can only exist in areas where both are low in population," said lead naturalist John Pollpeter.

Today red wolves can only be found in a small, isolated population in the northeast portion of North Carolina.

1850s July 4 Celebration Set For LBL's Homeplace

The Homeplace at Land Between The Lakes National Recreation Area will host a traditional 1850s Independence Day celebration from 1 to 4 p.m. July 4. A special guest, Kentucky statesman Henry Clay portrayed by George McGee, will entertain visitors with antics of 1850s politics. The program is funded by the Kentucky Humanities Council and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Activities include raising the 1850 American flag on the liberty pole, a group reading of the Declaration of Independence, patriotic crafts, games, music and a cool slice of watermelon. Programs are included with general admission to the Homeplace: $5 for ages 13 and up and $3 for ages 5 to 12. Children 4 and under are admitted free.

Visitors can spend the afternoon sitting under the shade trees enjoying old-time music from the Dixie Volunteers, learning how to play marbles and town ball, or lending a hand making ice cream the 1850s way. Ice cream recipes are included in the new Homeplace cookbook, "The Homeplace History and Receipt Book," which will be available for sale at the Homeplace gift shop.

"July 4th at the Homeplace is a wonderful way for the whole family to experience and learn the history behind one of the most important holidays in the 1850s," said interpreter Ellen Bravard. "Our visitors will relive a time when the war for independence from Great Britain was still fresh in memories and family stories. It was also a time of political speeches and communitywide picnics. We welcome everyone to join us under the shade trees — bring lawn chairs, blankets and picnic baskets to make a day of it."

DAPS Receives Donation From Knights Of Columbus

Knights of Columbus Council 15181, a Catholic fraternal group representing Dawson Springs, Princeton and Eddyville, presented a $500 check to Dawson Area Personal Services Friday as part of the Knights' national Food for Families program.

The check was for money raised from barbecue sales at Dawson Springs' Mule Day, the capstone event of this year's "40 Cans for Lent" food drive.

Many area churches, businesses and citizens donated food during Lent. For the second year in a row, donations to DAPS from the food drive exceeded 4,000 items.

Despite the Lenten donations, the need for food assistance this year remains high in a slow economy. DAPS is open to support area residents and accept donations each week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 to 11 a.m.

Homemakers Club Meets At Pennyryle State Park

The Pennyryle Homemakers met June 13 at Pennyryle Forest State Resort Park.

The meeting was called to order by club president JoAnn Edwards. The devotional was given by Ruth Buzard, who read "Expressing Family Love" and also read from 1 Corinthians 13.

Members answered roll call by naming the song that makes them think of summer. Edwards read a note from Jean Massamore which noted that the Pennyryle Homemakers organization will be 60 years old this year.

Minutes of the previous meeting were approved with one correction, and the treasurer's report was accepted as read. Members voted to help with the purchase of a retirement gift.

New officers were approved. The selection committee was made up of Jeannine Moore, Doris Franklin and Lou Nell Hensley.

Under old business, the group discussed serving meals at the Barbecue next month and the club's Adopt-a-Spot.

New business included participating in upcoming events. Several members will help with the Dawson Springs Fun Weekend activities this weekend. Proceeds from Friday night's spaghetti dinner will benefit the branch library.

The lesson on flower arranging was given by Sharon Budd and Wanda Hughes. Budd read the lesson and gave pointers on the best time of day to pick fresh flowers. Hughes arranged flowers she had picked from her yard and along the roadside.

Members played a word search game of wedding terms. Martha Parsons was the winner.

The prayer for the meal was given by Joyce Garrett.

The club's annual outing will be Aug. 8. The group will go to 51 on Main in Madisonville. The next meeting will be held Sept. 12.

Karen McKnight Attends Circuit Court Clerk College

Hopkins County Circuit Court Clerk Karen McKnight participated in the 2014 Circuit Court Clerks Spring College May 14-16 in Lexington. The Administrative Office of the Courts provided the judicial education program for the state's circuit court clerks.

The circuit court clerks attended courses on the expungement process, court technology, working with the media, bookkeeping and disaster preparation. They also heard from motivational speaker Jeff Eger on leadership, community involvement and relationships with the public and other government officials.

The college covered driver licensing and included sessions on the graduated driver license program, state traffic school, new federal laws for issuing commercial driver licenses, procedures after a driver is deceased and security practices for driver licensing offices. The college was funded with a grant from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Driver License Security Grant program and hosted by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet's Division of Driver's Licensing.

Circuit court clerks had the opportunity to attend courses about the legal rights and responsibilities of the Office of Circuit Court Clerk and best practices in hiring individuals to work in their offices. They also received an overview of court-related legislation passed during the 2014 General Assembly session and got an update from the Trust for Life program. The KACCC sponsors Trust for Life to promote organ and tissue donation through driver licensing and the Kentucky Organ Donor registry.
